*United States Decennial Census Publications, 1790-1970 is a separate microfilm publication from Research Publications. Pre-1945 U.S. population census publications contained in this collection are considered part of the International Population Census Publications: Series II.

INTRODUCTION

The Guide to the Microfilm Edition of Research Publications' International Population Census Publications provides the user with detailed citations and complete access information to the publications included in Series II, pre-1945. With the assistance of Doreen Goyer, Librarian at the Population Research Center, University of Texas at Austin, Research Publications has located and acquired population census publications for inclusion in the International Population Census Publications: Series I, 1945-1967; Series II, pre-1945; and Series III, post-1967. Series II of RP's census project is based on the multiple-volume International Population Census Bibliography compiled at the University of Texas.

The acquisition of census publications for inclusion in Series II tapped resources within the U.S. and abroad. Of particular assistance in this major preservation effort were the Population Research Center, the Bureau of the Census Library, the Population Studies Center at the University of Pennsylvania, the Office of Population Research at Princeton University, the New York Public Library, the Dag Hammarskjöld and Economic-Social Affairs Libraries at the United Nations, Harvard University, the Economic Growth Center at Yale University, and the East-West Population Institute in Honolulu. Overseas contributors include the British Library in London, the Devlet İstatistik Enstitüsü in Ankara, and the Instituto Nacional de Estadística in Madrid.

Pre-1945 census publications were not available for every country. In many cases publications were located but not available for microfilming due to poor condition. Also, many developing countries did not conduct populations census; the only information available was compiled by governing nations. Cross-references in the Table of Contents lead the user to a country that provides relevant statistical information as, for example, Japan does for the Ryukyu Islands. In some cases a collective census of overseas territories includes several colonies, as with the African colonies of Niger, Dahomey, Mauritania, and Senegal. They are all found in the same French colonial census, and this publication is included in the collection under Senegal, with a reference to that country noted from Niger, Dahomey, and Mauritania. The cross references also indicate changes in country names, but population information is provided only under one of these variants.

Research Publications also publishes a microfilm collection entitled United States Decennial Census Publications, 1790-1970, which includes both population and non-population material. The Table of Contents refers the user to this collection for census information relative to the U.S. territories, such as Guam, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The pre-1945 U.S. population census publications from United States Decennial Census Publications, 1790-1970 are considered part of International Population Census Publications, Series II. The United States Decennial Census Publications, 1790-1970 has its own Bibliography and Reel Index, which is provided with each complete Series II order.

Countries appear in alphabetical order in the guide with an appendix listing the countries included in Series II according to geographical region. Census publications are arranged in chronological order within each country in the microfilm edition. The guide reflects this sequence. Each item is assigned a two-part reference number based on a system developed by Doreen Goyer and used in the Population Research Center's bibliography set. The first part of the number is the year date of the census, followed by a decimal point and a sequential number as shown in the following sample entry:

ENGLAND AND WALES

Reel 1

1811.1

1821

Great Britain Census Office

1821.1

Abstract of the answers and returns. Preliminary observations, enumeration abstract and parish-register abstract. London, House of Commons, 1822. [6], xxxv, [3], 551, [2], 160 p.

The reference number also appears on the microfilm preceding the item. This reference number coupled with the country name provides unique identification of that entry. A reference number in brackets indicates an item not listed in the source bibliography, but added by RP and assigned a number compatible with the original numbering scheme. Several bracketed entries were identified through a supplemental bibliography also produced by the University of Texas. Other entries were included in the microfilm edition of International Population Census Publications after being located by RP during the acquisition effort. In this case, the item is unique to this guide.
